MEMORANDUM

For: Minister of Basic, Higher and Technical Education, BARMM

All Others Concerned

Subject: CALL FOR QUESTIONS ON CLIMATE CHANGE

The Department of Education (DepEd) through the Disaster Risk Reduction and Management Service (DRRMS) seeks to strengthen the integration of climate change adaptation and mitigation in the curriculum. In this connection, a handbook for teaching climate change is being developed. This will help teachers ensure that existing climate change competencies are grasped by the learners. Although the internet is a rich resource, one can easily be lost in their search for answers. Along with the Department's ongoing digital literacy project, the DRRMS and its partners would like to guarantee that only the most updated and correct information on climate change is used by teachers.

With this, the DRRMS and its partners would like to solicit questions on climate change from learners and teachers to ensure that these will be answered in the handbook. The questions may involve climate science, adaptation and mitigation strategies especially community-based ones, impacts to life on earth, national policies, and international commitments.

Questions are directed to be submitted at <http://bit.ly/ClimateChange>
Questions not later than 22 January 2020.

For more information, please contact Ms. Lara Jean L. Salaysay of DRRMS through 8635-3764 or email at drmmo+ccam@deped.gov.ph.

For immediate and appropriate action.
