MESSAGE

It was six years ago when we took our first step in realizing the systemic reform in basic education. With this, our government has promised that no one will be left behind. We will all transform into an improved quality education where there is progress for all whether you are rich or you are poor.

In the reformed curriculum, we have nurtured our pupils and our students with the basic life and communication skills for them to be able to compete in the global arena. We also gave them ample time to learn concepts, understand their abilities, and recognize proper actions and conduct.

This year's theme, "K to 12 Learners: Ready to Face Life's Challenges," implies that we should always give our students the opportunities and experiences to make them ready to face life's challenges and adversities as we Filipinos are known to be resilient.

We believed that with K to 12, every graduate is empowered to seek and attain progress not only for himself and for his family, but for the entire country.

My congratulations to all completers and graduates, their parents, their teachers, and the whole community.
