CONGRATULATIONS.

This is the word that aptly expresses jubilation for the accomplishment and achievement of learners in their educational journey.

This is not a singular achievement of the learner alone but the complement of the entire community; the parents, the teachers, administrators and support services personnel.

Heartwarming to note is that another victory is won by all stakeholders in education, thus saving the community from the ill-effects of social ills and evils.

But this graduation event is not yet in its finality, the graduates are still to report to their alma mater their application of ideals learned in real life situations through hurdling situations solving societal problems.

My belief for continued victories and after a lapse of due time we will all meet in an arena of reunion and again celebrating another grand societal victories.

Godspeed.
